Alix,

The 2020 Elections didn't end in 2020: the Runoff Elections in Georgia for both its U.S. Senators are scheduled for January 5th, 2021!

At The Andrew Goodman Foundation (AGF), our goal is to support and empower students in Georgia to vote in the upcoming Runoff Elections. We are convening and organizing our Andrew Goodman Campuses in Georgia, creating a strong network of local activists and providing monetary and legal resources students would otherwise not have. We have a reach of over 48,545 students across our six Andrew Goodman Campuses in Georgia:

- Albany State University
- Clark Atlanta University
- Georgia State University
- Kennesaw State University
- Morehouse College
- Spelman College

We want you to meet one of our incredible Andrew Goodman Ambassadors, Alix Swann, who is leading the efforts to register, inform, and mobilize student voters in Georgia!

“Inspiring students to care about this election has been more difficult than the General Election because most people were under the impression that it was all over! The digital strategy that AUC (Atlanta University Center) Votes has been using is focused on voter education by highlighting the importance of the runoff and its effect on Historically Black College and University students.”

Alix Swann is a junior at Spelman College, majoring in International Studies with a concentration in Cultural Studies and a minor in Comparative Women’s Studies. Originally from Silver Spring, Maryland, Alix is a youth leader and activist who is passionate about, and committed to, advocating for engagement and participation among students of color. In September 2020, she was awarded the prestigious John Lewis Scholarship for her commitment to social justice on, and off, campus. She attributes her experience as an Andrew Goodman Ambassador as a critical force in advancing her dedication for youth civic engagement and social justice. Alix speaks about her virtual voter engagement work with students of color here.

We need your support today to help Alix empower students across Georgia to go out and vote on January 5th and make a difference in their state’s history and in the fate of our democracy. Thank you for making a difference in the lives of young Georgian leaders!

In urgency and solidarity,

Maxim Thorne, Esq.
