

SCROLL OF HONOR

The successes of the Committee on the Appeal for Human Rights did not come without tremendous sacrifice. Many students and their supporters were arrested at demonstrations throughout the city and served time for their actions, sometimes choosing jail over bail. The students' names, ages, schools and hometowns were printed by Atlanta newspapers to create a public record of their activities.

Arrests occurred at the lunch counters of Rich's Department Store, F.W. Woolworth's, H.L. Green, Rexall Drug Stores, City Hall of Atlanta, Fulton County Courthouse, Sprayberry's Cafeteria, McCrory Five and Dime, Davison-Paxon, Sears, Lebs, Pick-Rick, The Georgia State Capitol, Grady Hospital, Terminal and Union Stations, and Greyhound and Trailways Bus Stations.

This list is a partial representation of the people who contributed to the success of the movement. It includes the names of those arrested, jailed and/or indicted, during the targeted lunch counter sit-ins of 1960-1963; those who participated in "kneel-ins" at white churches; the designers and operators of the two-way radio system that allowed for targeted sit-ins; and adults who contributed their time, money, influence or other resources to the movement. It does not include all of the names of the thousands who walked picket lines, attended mass meetings and marched on the Georgia Capitol in the pursuit of freedom. This list will evolve and expand during the ongoing initiative to collect, display and share the story of the Atlanta Student Movement.
