Charter Day Observance

The Honorable George L-P Weaver with President and Mrs. Clement and members of the press.

On Friday, October 16, the traditional Charter Day Convocation and Dinner were held to celebrate the ninety-ninth anniversary of the founding of the University and the ninety-seventh anniversary of the granting of the Atlanta University Charter.

This year, the Convocation speaker was The Honorable George L-P Weaver, Assistant Secretary of Labor for International Affairs, who was appointed to this position by the late President Kennedy in July, 1961. Prior to that time, Mr. Weaver had served as Special Assistant to the then Secretary of Labor, Arthur J. Goldberg. Pittsburgh-born, the former redcap has spent almost his entire working life in the labor movement, gaining extensive experience as an administrator in the fields of civil rights and international labor. His official missions have taken him to Malaya, Thailand, India, Lebanon, Canada, Japan, Africa, Europe, the Middle East and Latin America. In 1961, Mr. Weaver was awarded the Eleanor Roosevelt Key for outstanding service to the world community. This is the highest single award given to alumni of Roosevelt University, Chicago. In 1962, he received an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from Howard University and in 1963, became the first American to be presented with the Malayan honorary award of Panglima Mangku Megara, which he received personally from the Malayan Head of State at a special investiture ceremony in Kuala Lumpur.

Addressing the Charter Day audience in Sisters Chapel, Mr. Weaver listed America's goals within the family of nations as spelled out by Secretary of State Dean Rusk, as follows: a world free of aggression; a world of independent nations; a world of economic and social advance for all peoples; a world which provides sure and equitable means for the peaceful settlement of disputes and which moves steadily toward a rule of law; a world in which the powers of the State over the individual are limited by law and custom—in which the personal freedoms essential to the dignity of man are secure; a world free of hate and discrimination based on race, nationality, religion or economic and social status; a world of equal rights and equal opportunities for the entire human race. He said that "in the past, the spectre of discrimination gave reason to discourage young Negroes from preparing themselves for positions in the international field. Today, that spectre has diminished to the vanishing point. Today, the most important limitation of opportunities for the Negro in international work is the limitation the Negro sets for himself. The most exciting and challenging future imaginable lies ahead. By grace of that great tide of change toward complete equality of opportunity for all Americans, the future is truly yours if you but take advantage of it."

Dr. Richard Barksdale presented fourteen new members of the faculty who were the guests of honor at the Charter Day Dinner in the evening. He prefaced his individual introductions with an over-all statistical profile of the new members, which elicited laughter and added to the festive spirit of the evening.

New in the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences are Dr. James E. Conyers, associate professor of sociology; Mr. Louis Dale, instructor of mathematics; Dr. Roy Hunter, Jr., associate professor of biology; Dr. Johnny Jackson, assistant professor of biology; Dr. Veeriah V. Kota, professor of mathematics; Mr. George T. Lockwood, assistant professor of French; and Dr. Lloyd K. Williams, professor of mathematics and chairman of the department.

Dr. Conyers, who obtained his master's degree in sociology at Atlanta University in 1956 and his doctorate in sociology from Washington State University in 1962, has been assistant professor of sociology at Indiana State College. Mr. Dale, who obtained the master's degree in mathematics in the summer of 1964 from Atlanta University, was formerly a teacher with the Birmingham, Alabama, school system. Dr. Hunter, who was an associate professor of biology at Morehouse College from 1961-63, received his master's degree from Atlanta University in 1953 and his doctorate in biology from Brown University in 1962. Dr. Jackson received his master's degree in 1961 and his doctorate in botany in August, 1964, from the University of Oklahoma.

Charter Day Dinner.

The head table at the Charter Day Dinner.

Dr. Kota, originally from Hyderabad, India, was formerly associate professor of mathematics and physics at Fredonia State University College, New York, and holds a B.S. degree from North Carolina State University and an M.S. from Lowell Technological Institute. He received his B.Sc., M.Sc. and Ph.D. degrees in mathematics with specialization in physics and chemistry from Osmania University in Hyderabad, India. Mr. Lockwood, who received his master's degree from the University of Pennsylvania in 1941, is presently a doctoral candidate at the University of Wisconsin. Dr. Williams, who is assuming chairmanship of the Department of Mathematics, received his master's degree and doctor's degree from the University of California (Berkeley) in 1949 and 1956 respectively.

Additions to the School of Social Work are Harold Bardonille, Jr., instructor, Mrs. Kathryn Brisbane and Calvin W. Fenton, assistant professors. Mr. Bardonille obtained his master's degree in sociology from Atlanta University in 1963 and was formerly research advisor to the Federated Neighborhood Council in Toledo, Ohio. Mrs. Brisbane, a Spelman College graduate, received her master's degree in social work from Atlanta University in 1957. From 1957 to 1960, Mrs. Brisbane was director of Community Services with the Atlanta Urban League and from 1960 to 1964 was executive director of the Grady Homes Community Girls Club. Mr. Fenton, who obtained his master's degree in social work from Adelphi College, New York, in 1962, has been a supervisor in the Social Service Department of the Narcotics Addiction Unit of the Pilgrim State Hospital in Suffolk County, New York.

Mr. Miles M. Jackson, Jr., who expects to complete all requirements for a Ph.D. degree from Indiana University in 1965, will be the University Librarian at Trevor Arnett Library. From 1962 to the present, Mr. Jackson has been advisor to the Legislative Reference Library of the Government of Samoa.

Additions to the School of Library Service include Mrs. Tommie M. Allen, assistant professor, and Mrs. Jean Petrof, instructor. Mrs. Allen obtained her master's degree in library service from Peabody College in 1955 and has been an assistant professor at Southern University since 1961. Mrs. Petrof obtained her master's degree in library service from Atlanta University in 1962. Her husband, John V. Petrof, is joining the faculty of the School of Business Administration as an associate professor, and is a doctoral candidate at the University of Florida.

The president, who was Master of Ceremonies, introduced the respective husbands and wives of the new faculty, and also the additions to the faculty in a part-time capacity—Mr. James Anderson and Mrs. Beatrice Gore in the School of Education, Dr. Jerome Berlin in the School of Business Administration, and Mrs. Cecilia J. Harsch, Dr. J. T. Palmer and Mr. Robert A. Porter in the School of Social Work. Dr. Clement also introduced new assistants in Administration—Miss Carolyn Lyles, Mrs. Antoinette R. Frederick, Mrs. Virginia Brown, Mrs. Joyce Smith, Miss Barbara Ramey and Mrs. Juanita C. Manuel, secretaries, Miss Ollie M. Clayton, secretarial assistant in the Office of the Registrar, Mrs. Martha M. Orr, cashier in the Office of the Bursar, Mrs. Jessie M. Dickerson, assistant cataloger in the Trevor Arnett Library, Miss Otha Russell, general assistant in The Reading Clinic, and Miss Margaret J. Catchings and Miss Thelma Sun, library assistants in the School of Library Service.

Musical interludes during the dinner were provided by Miss Glenda Anderson of Spelman College, Lamar Alford of Morehouse College and Miss Jean Waymer of Atlanta University. Mr. Weaver, guest speaker at the morning's convocation, made an informal talk and Dr. Clement introduced the Reverend Martin Luther King, Sr., who was seated at the head table, and offered to him congratulations, both personal and on behalf of the faculty and administration, on his son, Martin Luther, Jr., being the recipient of the 1964 Nobel Peace Prize.

Dr. Clement made the announcement that Dr. Lafayette Frederick had been awarded the second Atlanta University Trustee Award for Excellence-in-Teaching, and presented Dr. Virginia Jones with a plaque from the trustees of the University "in appreciation of twenty-five years of devoted service." Dr. Rushton Coulborn was also awarded a twenty-five years service plaque in absentia.

New faculty — l. to r. standing: Dr. L. K. Williams; Dr. V. V. Kota; Mr. L. Dale; Mrs. T. M. Allen; Dr. Roy Hunter, Jr.; Mr. G. Lockwood; Dr. J. Jackson; seated: Mr. H. Bardonille, Jr.; Mrs. K. Brisbane; Mrs. B. Petrof; Mr. J. V. Petrof; Mr. Miles M. Jackson, Jr.

The Summer Commencement

The Summer School Processional.

Dr. Frank G. Dickey, director of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, was the convocation speaker at the Summer School Commencement exercises held on August 6 in Sisters Chapel, Spelman College. Dr. Dickey received his Master of Arts degree in 1942 and his doctorate in education in 1947 from the University of Kentucky, and served as its president from 1956 to 1963. He is a member of the Board of the American Council on Education. He served on the Executive Committee of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools until 1963, when he became its director. Well-known for his academic and civic interests, Dr. Dickey is the author of several educational articles.

Calling the attention of the graduating students to the fact that the less formal aims of a university are no less important than the academic subject matter of the classroom, Dr. Dickey said, "I am thinking of such objectives as that of giving students a broad perspective about life and the world in which we live, or of encouraging the involvement of students in the world's work and its worries, or of prompting students to make commitments to establish worthwhile values."

Charging the students with certain responsibilities and obligations in the days ahead, Dr. Dickey gave what he thinks are the two basic areas of responsibility—the search for beauty in the world and the search for truth, and asked the students to give some thought to the breadth of responsibilities which truth and beauty encompass. "For," he continued, "if you are thinking of the need for attention to some of the major social issues of our day, let me just remind you that focus upon truth and beauty would bring about practically any revolution or change desired. My plea to you this afternoon would be that of utilizing your newly attained status and your knowledge to bring truth and beauty to the world in which we live, for we CAN and MUST make the world a finer and more beautiful place for our having been here."

Dr. Rufus E. Clement, president, conferred one hundred and seven degrees on students drawn from fourteen states and the District of Columbia. Degrees were also conferred on students from eight foreign countries—Taiwan, Kenya, India, Ghana, Trinidad, Hong Kong, Nigeria and Korea.

Receiving the Master of Arts degree were: Mrs. Carolyn Frazier Blakely, Magnolia, Ark., Anne Louise Nolls, Greenville, Miss., and Lois Jean Lanier, Newton, Ga., in English; Floris Loretta Barnett, Athens, Ga., in History; Ally Faye Calhoun, Ropeline, La., Elizabeth Ida Howze, Mobile, Ala., Hanes Walton, Jr., Athens, Ga., and John L. Williams, Little Rock, Ark., in Political Science; Harold Bardonille, Jr., St. Albans, N. Y., and Ivan Philip Hakeem, Bareilly, India, in Sociology.

The 1964 Summer School Graduating Class.

The Summer School

The 1964 Summer School enrollment figures exceeded those of 1963 by one hundred and thirty-five, representing an increase of one hundred and forty-one graduate and a decrease of six undergraduate students. The total enrollment was 1,936, distributed as follows:

Graduate students	1,451
Undergraduate students	485

THE FORUM SERIES

Dr. Paul I. Clifford, registrar and director of the Summer School, was the opening speaker in the Summer School Forum series, which is held in Davage Auditorium, Clark College, on seven consecutive Tuesdays during Summer School. The program, which is designed to enrich the academic offerings of the University by bringing distinguished speakers to the campus, is open to the public, and students and faculty are urged to attend.

Discussing "Special Problems in the Education of Minority Youth," Dr. Clifford said that "the loss of potential ability among minority groups, especially Negroes, in America far exceeds that of any other sector of the population. This nation can no longer afford either the luxury or the folly of neglecting the intellectual, social and economic contributions which could be made by considerably more than one-tenth of its population."

"The Community Improvement Program and Problems and Projects facing the Aldermanic Board" were discussed by Mr. Rodney Cook, a City of Atlanta alderman. Mr. Cook charged that one of the major problems of the board is opposition to change. Stressing that "elected officials must bring to people a government that offers full opportunity or active participation and influence to everyone who is willing to join and work for it, a government that is dedicated to the protection of the rights of each and every citizen," Mr. Cook said that "we have had too many bad leaders at the county, state and national levels because the county unit system kept many good men from running for office."

Re-elected as Senator of the 36th District in the November elections, Mr. Joe Salome was the guest speaker at the Forum on June 30. He discussed some of the evils of malapportionment and discussed problems facing the Georgia Senate.

On July 7, Dr. Ronald Goldstein, Atlanta dentist, spoke at the Forum on "Halfway House Opposition—A Symbol of Atlanta's Rejection of the Emotionally Restored." Named by the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce "The Outstanding Young Man of 1962," Dr. Goldstein is a graduate of Emory University School of Dentistry. He is national chairman of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce Committee on Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

The speaker on July 14 was Dr. Horace E. Tate, executive secretary of the Georgia Teachers and Education Association. A graduate of the University, Dr. Tate spoke on the "Current Trends and Problems in Education."

Senator James P. Wesberry, representing the 35th District, to which he was re-elected in the November elections, spoke at the Tuesday morning session on July 21. He predicted that "if we have states fifty years from now, it will be due to the reapportionment decision and states righters should be thankful for it." Senator Wesberry discussed the racial aspects of malapportioned legislative bodies and the utilization of malapportionment to disenfranchise minority groups through the guise of protecting other minorities. He told his Forum audience that much of the racial trouble in Georgia today stems from a "legislature that has not understood the problem . . . and would not even admit a problem existed."

Last, but not least, in the Summer School Forum Series, was Mrs. Eliza Paschall, Executive Director of the Council on Human Relations of Greater Atlanta, who entitled her talk "Free—At Last." Praising the work done by the Atlanta Summit Conference and the Mayor's Coordinating Committee, Mrs. Paschall said, however, that "the members of these organizations are volunteers and are specialists in their own right in other fields. The city of Atlanta has made no provision for a permanent serious agency to deal with civil rights and human relations problems." She felt the time has come when Atlanta needs an agency to deal with the Civil Rights Law, an agency with a paid, full-time trained staff with an office. She continued by saying that in January, 1964, Mayor Ivan Allen had said he would set up a Civil Rights office, "but," Mrs. Paschall said, "here it is July, and we still do not have one."

The music during the Summer School Forum series was under the direction of Dr. Willis L. James, Spelman College.

NDEA 1964 Summer Language Institute Participants.

LANGUAGE INSTITUTE

The Department of French of Atlanta University held its second Summer Language Institute for secondary teachers of French from June 18 to August 5. The seven-week teacher training program was offered under the provisions of the National Defense Education Act of 1958 and was under the direction of Dr. Benjamin F. Hudson, chairman, Department of French.

In addition to Dr. Hudson, the staff of the Institute included Dr. George Reynolds, chairman, Department of French, Clark College; Mr. Richard Merrill, Supervisor of Modern Foreign Languages, Waltham Public Schools, Waltham, Massachusetts; Dr. Daniel L. Racine, director, Language Laboratory, Howard University; M. Henri Armand, assistant professor of French, Clark College; Miss Joanne Jeffries, instructor of linguistics, University of

The Staff of the Language Institute.

Texas, and Mr. Norman Côté, instructor of French, Saint Anselm's High School, Manchester, New Hampshire, as instructors; and four native speakers of French—Mlle. Marthe Catry, Alain Didier Genestre, Mlle. Chantal Irma Marie Koob and George Santoni.

The formal program was enriched by evening programs consisting of a film series and a series of lectures by eminent authorities. Receptions were held after each lecture and Institute participants were thus afforded the opportunity to talk in French informally with the lecturers. Highlight of the lecture series was the discussion of education in France given by M. Edouard Morot-Sir, Cultural Counsellor attached to the French Cultural Services of the Embassy of France in New York.

An integral part of the course were two demonstration classes in French, one for high school students who had not studied French and the other for high school students who had completed one year of an audio-visual course in French. These classes were taught by master teachers employing the most effective methods of foreign language instruction.

Extra-curricular activities included a Bastille Day picnic at Jordan Lake, a Bastille Day celebration at the Americana Hotel, Atlanta, as the guests of the local chapter of l'Alliance Francaise, and a reception given in honor of a group of French-speaking African leaders making a tour of the United States.

Of the fifty-eight participants in the Institute, twenty-two are teachers in the public schools in the State of Georgia.

THE SUMMER THEATRE

The Thirty-First Season of the Atlanta University Summer Theatre opened with the children's play, "Chain of Jade," by Rogers and Bucci. The play, directed by Judith Allen, a Spelman College drama major, under the supervision of Dr. B. W. Burroughs, had a cast of children, and was the third annual production of a play for children designed to show elementary school teachers what can be done with students in their own schools. Matinees were given each morning and were well attended. Johnny Popwell designed the setting, Wesley Bee the costumes. Music was under the direction of Elynor Williams and the lighting handled by William Fields.

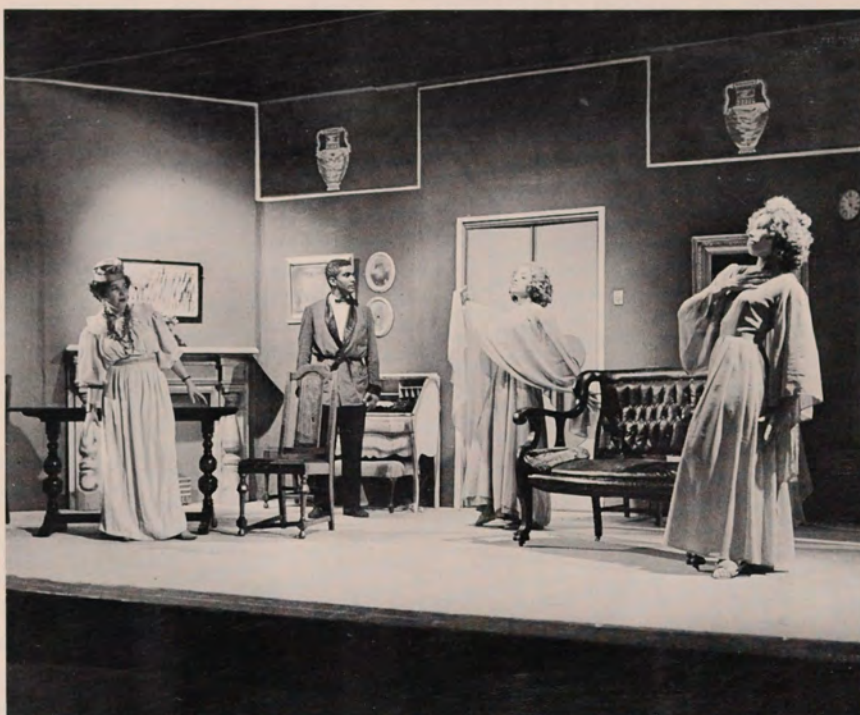

The second play of the season was "The Trials of Brother Jero" by Wole Soyinka and was produced in cooperation with the Atlanta University Center's Non-Western Studies Program. Taking the lead female role was Miss Claudia Dell Finger, director of the Department of Drama at Bennett College, Greensboro, North Carolina, who appeared as a special guest artiste. Dr. J. Preston Cochran, professor of drama, Department of Speech and Drama, Spelman College, played the lead male role, Jeroboam. Dr. Baldwin W. Burroughs, director of the Atlanta-Morehouse-Spelman Players and of the Summer Theatre, directed the play, Johnny Popwell designed the setting, Victor Partridge was in charge of sound effects and the lighting was handled by Arthur Burks. Wesley Bee was costume designer.

"Blithe Spirit" by Noel Coward was the last production of the 1964 Summer Theatre. Ann Ford Harris played the leading role of Elvira, and Thelma Branch played Madame Arcati. Guest director for the production was Dr. Cochran, the settings were by Johnny Popwell. Carolyn Crawford handled the lighting and Wesley Bee designed the costumes.

BOOK REVIEW SERIES

Two books were reviewed during the Summer Session, the reviews being sponsored by the School of Library Service. Dr. Paul I. Clifford, registrar and director of the Summer School, reviewed Hillel Black's They Shall Not Pass, in which the author explains step by step the way a million standardized tests are used each year to rate and sort students, beginning with the first grades. What these tests can do for educators and to students is also included in the book.

Dr. Mays, president, Morehouse College, reviewed the second book, John W. Gardner's Self-Renewal, which discusses those qualities or traits which mark the self-renewing man. The author explains that each generation refights the crucial battles of our moral order and either brings new vitality to the ideals or allows them to decay.

THE SUMMER SCHOOL CONCERT

Atlanta University Summer School Chorus presented its annual concert on August 5. The mixed choir of forty-four voices sang in a program of wide range and musical interest. Some of the most famous and beautiful music in the world was included in the program—works by Mozart, Bach, Mendelssohn, Beethoven, Herbert, Sullivan and Cole Porter.

The soloists were Tranas Long, pianist, Luther Stripling, bass-baritone, Jean Waymer and Johnnie Davis, mezzo-sopranos, Carmen Wilson, soprano, and Laurence Weaver and Joseph McCarty, tenors.

Dr. Willis L. James, director of the Summer School Chorus, said that this Chorus contained voices of exceptional and brilliant quality. Dr. Grace Boggs Smith was the accompanist.

CAMPUS BRIEFS

MRS. LUCILLE STRONG RETIRES

Mrs. Lucille Mack Strong retired on December 31 after forty-three years of service with Atlanta University. Six of these years were spent as a teacher, thirty-seven years as Bursar.

Born in Athens, Georgia, she earned the Bachelor of Arts degree in 1918 from Atlanta University and later took courses at Columbia University and the University of Chicago. She taught at Texas College after graduation but resigned from this position to teach mathematics in the high school department of the University from 1919 to 1925. Mrs. Strong was in Chicago, Illinois, from 1925 to 1927, during which time she became the wife of H. H. Strong. In 1927, she returned to the University to become its Bursar, and to assist President Myron W. Adams in editing the General Catalogue and History of Atlanta University, both of which were invaluable in the transition from undergraduate to graduate work.

Mrs. Strong has had many interesting and memorable experiences working as Bursar in four administrations—President Adams, President John Hope, Acting President Florence M. Read and President Rufus E. Clement.

The faculty and administration of the University wish Mrs. Strong many pleasant years of retirement.

GIFT TO COUNTEE CULLEN COLLECTION

The Harold Jackman Memorial Committee of New York City has donated a collection of books, playbills and programs of dramatic and musical productions and other items of value to the Countee Cullen Collection which is housed in the Trevor Arnett Library. Mr. Jackman founded the Countee Cullen Collection in 1942 and, since his death, the Memorial Committee, which consists of close friends of Mr. Jackman, has continued to collect materials related to the Negro American in music, literature and other creative arts.

VISITORS TO THE CAMPUS

During the fall there were fewer visitors to the campus than usual. A party of thirty seniors from McCullough High School, Monticello, Mississippi, toured the Atlanta University Center buildings and grounds in November. The Reverend C. Edgar Wilkinson, a Methodist minister from Port Elizabeth, South Africa, visited the campus in September. On November 17, two members of the United States Information Service—Saw Beng Chong, Cultural Affairs Assistant at the American Embassy in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, and Azumi Yasutomi, Information Advisor to the American Cultural Center in Niigata, Japan, visited the campus and were entertained by members of the faculty and administration. Traveling as a guest of the Department of State Foreign Leader Program, Mr. Antoine Konan Kanga, Mayor of Abidjan, was in Atlanta on September 14 and visited the University Center.

Dr. Lafayette Frederick, professor of biology and chairman of the department, receiving the second Atlanta University Trustee Award for Excellence-in-Teaching from President Clement. The Award is based on excellence in teaching and amounts to $1,000. Dr. Clement announced the Award at the annual Charter Day Dinner.

Dr. Edward K. Weaver, professor of science education, receiving the grant of $1,000 which was awarded to Atlanta University by the Institute of International Education-Readers Digest Foundation for Distinguished Services in the field of international education and cultural relations. Dr. Weaver, who is Foreign Student Adviser, received the grant for his outstanding contributions to educational exchange activities. The Award, which was designated to help provide an international experience to a member of the faculty who has done exceptional work in the foreign student field, enabled Dr. Weaver to visit Israel.

SCIENCE AND MATHEMATICS INSTITUTE

The National Science Foundation has again made grants to enable the University to conduct an institute for secondary school teachers of science and mathematics during the 1965-66 academic year. Forty applicants will be accepted and receive $3,000 as a basic stipend, plus additional allowances and free tuition.

A Summer Institute will be conducted concurrently with the 1966 Summer Session. The program has been arranged so that students who qualify may be enrolled in successive summers and take work leading to the master's degree in chemistry, mathematics, science education and biology. Dr. K. A. Huggins, professor of chemistry, will direct the Institute.

COUNSELING CENTER FOR HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

The 1964-65 program of personal, educational, and vocational counseling for secondary school students in the Atlanta metropolitan area offered by the Department of Guidance and Counseling commenced on December 5 and will continue until May, 1965. Dr. Huey E. Charlton is supervisor of the Counseling Center.

The counseling sessions are being held at the University Guidance and Counseling Center, located at the corner of Walnut and Tatnall Streets, which is equipped with private counseling booths, numerous psychometric tests, and the essential electronic apparatus needed for effective counseling. The Center also has a modern occupational library.

A survey conducted at the close of the last school term revealed that parents and students had been enthusiastic in support of the Center, reporting that they had benefited from the personal counseling, testing and study of their educational and vocational plans.

THE FIRST UNIVERSITY CENTER CULTURAL PROGRAM

A grant from the Ford Foundation has made possible a series of cultural programs for the University Center. The first of the series was a concert given by the Don Shirley Trio on October 5. The artists appearing as members of the concert ensemble included Don Shirley, pianist; Peter Stolarchyk, cellist; Richard Armin, cellist; and James Candido, bassist. The organizational structure of this group is unique in that rarely are these three instruments combined in a concert trio.

The concert was devoted to twentieth century American music arranged or composed by Don Shirley.

Mrs. Hallie Beachem Brooks represents Atlanta University on the Atlanta University Center Cultural Concert Committee.

CROSSROADS AFRICA CONFERENCE

Operation Crossroads Africa held a conference at the University Center on October 24, to which students and interested persons in the area were invited. Dr. Horace Mann Bond, dean, School of Education, gave the welcoming address and Mr. Albert G. Oliver, Executive Assistant to the Director, and Mr. James C. Rogers, member of the Board of Directors of Crossroads Africa, made the introductory remarks.

Panel discussions on Crossroads experience and the role of students in the Operation were held—Dr. Tilman C. Cothran, Atlanta University, Reverend Norman Rates, Spelman College, and Dr. E. A. Jones, Morehouse College, joined in the discussion with Mr. Walford Edwards and Dr. Herbert Bodman. The film, "Operation Crossroads Africa," produced and edited by USIA in 1963, was shown and a reception for participants was held in Bumstead Hall in the evening.

Dr. Virginia Lacy Jones, dean of the School of Library Service, being presented by President Clement with a plaque from the trustees of the University "in appreciation of twenty-five years of devoted service." Dr. Clement made the presentation at the annual Charter Day Dinner.

BOOK REVIEWS

During the first semester, the School of Library Service presented two book reviews. Dr. Richard K. Barksdale reviewed Literature and Science by Aldous Huxley, which explores the problem of how to make the best of both worlds—the world of science and the world of total human experience.

Mr. Robert Fishman, Department of Political Science, Clark College, reviewed The Invisible Government by David Wise and Thomas B. Ross. This book, published by Random House this year, is concerned with the role of the Central Intelligence Agency and its part in the cold war.

THE THIRD ANNUAL CAREER CONFERENCE

The Third Annual Federal Employment Outlook Program, in which the six institutions in the University Center participated, was held on the campus on October 12 and 13. The Program was held in conjunction with the national and local Urban Leagues and the Civil Service Commission and was designed to familiarize students with the opportunities for employment in the federal government. Representatives from the various government agencies in Atlanta and the South spoke at Chapel services and were available for consultation with students wishing information.

THE ATLANTA-MOREHOUSE- SPELMAN PLAYERS

Two plays were presented by the A-M-S Players this fall. "The Tempest" by William Shakespeare was performed on November 2 through 7 as a quadri-centennial celebration of the author's birth. Two matinees for high school students were also given. All performances were held in the new Spelman Fine Arts Theatre.

Dr. Baldwin Burroughs directed the play. Settings were designed by Carlton Molette, II, the music composed by John Price, costumes effected by Cecilia Perrin and Hildegarde Tornow choreographed. In conjunction with the play, a Shakespeare Exhibit was held in the Spelman College Campus Reading Room.

The second production by the Players was "The House of Bernarda Alba" by Federico-García Lorca. Leading roles in the all-woman cast were played by Alberta Foster in the demanding role of Bernarda; Shirley Cox in the role of Poncia, Bernarda's servant; Anne Harvey as Angustias; Adrienne Lanier as Magdalena; Cecilia Perrin as Martirio; Berlyn Chatard and Barbara Bell alternated in the part of Amelia; and Vicki Gary as Adela, the youngest, best-looking daughter. Damaris Allen and Dianne Wilson alternated in the part of Bernarda's 80-year-old mother.

Director of this production was Dr. J. Preston Cochran, professor of theatre at Spelman College. The set was designed by Johnny Popwell and executed under the supervision of Joe L. Hill. Costumes designed by Jo Anne Whatley and Cecilia Perrin were executed by Gloria Starks, costume mistress, and her assistant, Charlotte Harris. Lighting was handled by Al Trotter, and the music, from the personal collection of Dr. Gerardo Ebanks, associate professor of modern foreign languages, Morehouse College, was played by James Sutton. Dr. Ebanks also directed the male chorus.

It was an excellent production, with superb performances being given in the leading roles.

ATLANTA UNIVERSITY CENTER SPECIAL CONVOCATION

His Excellency Franklin H. Williams, United States Representative to the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations, was the guest speaker at the Atlanta University Center Special Convocation held on October 19 in Sisters Chapel in connection with a week-long recruitment program for the Peace Corps.

The Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC), to which Ambassador Williams was appointed United States representative in June, 1964, is responsible under the authority of the General Assembly of the United Nations for promoting higher standards of living, full employment and general improvement of economic and social progress and development.

Prior to his appointment to the United Nations, His Excellency was Regional Director for Africa, one of the Peace Corps' largest program areas, and had the responsibility for the development and operation of all Peace Corps activities throughout Africa, including 14 countries with 2,264 volunteers. A graduate of Lincoln University and the Fordham University School of Law, the Ambassador is a veteran of World War II, a former member of the National Board of the American Veterans' Committee and has served on the Board of Directors of the American Civil Liberties Union and the American Association for the United Nations.

Speaking to a capacity audience, Ambassador Williams gave special emphasis to the Peace Corps being a special opportunity for the Negro student, particularly as he seeks to raise his horizon of total experience and preparation, and expressed his disappointment that it has not attracted a larger number of Negro volunteers. Pointing out that the Peace Corps "is a poor man's Rhodes' Scholarship toward living, working, learning, and having the overseas experiences few Americans get," the United States Ambassador to the United Nations said the Corps presents students with a three-fold opportunity to serve—the opportunity to help people in other countries, the opportunity to help serve their own country by selling the American way of life and the opportunity to help themselves.

A Peace Corps Information Booth was set up in the front lobby of the Trevor Arnett Library and the Ambassador talked to students individually during the afternoon of his visit. The booth was manned during the remainder of the week by members of the Peace Corps Administration in Washington.

NEGRO COLLECTION OF PAINTINGS

Twenty-five oils, twenty prints and six pieces of sculpture from the Negro Collection were loaned to Texas Southern University for exhibit during the summer months. Dr. John T. Biggers, head of the Art Department, was in charge of the exhibit.

Five paintings from the Negro Collection are now on display in the Administrative Offices of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools in Atlanta.

ATLANTA UNIVERSITY STUDENT GUEST AT THE WHITE HOUSE

Mr. Robert West, Atlanta University student from Augusta, Georgia, represented the University at a reception at the White House for student leaders from representative colleges and universities throughout the country. His hosts were President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, and their daughter, Lynda.

Mr. West was rewarded for being early for the reception. While he was walking around outside the White House, the President was walking inside the grounds, saw Mr. West and began chatting with him informally through the railings.

The selected college leaders had the opportunity to make an unescorted tour of the White House and visited the first floors containing the historical documents and mementoes of every past president of the United States from Presidents Washington to Kennedy.

During the reception, the President chatted informally with the students, and they were addressed by Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense McNamara. Other visitors at the reception included Mr. and Mrs. William Friday, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, Harry Ransom, John Macy, Francis Keppel, and John Gardner, president of the Carnegie Foundation. The President told the students of his new program—the White House Fellows, fifteen young men and women who will work directly with government officials so that they may obtain first-hand, high-level experience with the workings of the federal government and increase their sense of participation in national affairs.

The student leaders were entertained later at a banquet which was held in the South State Room, and in Mr. West's own words, "the meal was enormous and wonderful." After dinner, the President's daughter, Lynda, sponsored a concert, which included performances by Willis Conover, the Chad Mitchell Trio, Bob Newhart and the Stan Getz Quartet.

Mr. West, who received his A.B. from South Carolina State College in 1958, is a first-year graduate student in Counseling and Guidance in the School of Education and the week after his return from the White House, became the father of a baby son.

SCHOOL OF LIBRARY SERVICE LECTURES

The School of Library Service sponsored a series of lectures during the first semester. The first lecture, under the auspices of the Special Libraries Association, was held on October 1 and was given by Mr. Burton E. Lamkin, manager of the Development Laboratory Library of the IBM Corporation in San Jose, California. Mr. Lamkin's topic was "Education, Attitude and Challenges of Special Librarianship" and covered the reasons why special libraries are needed, how they serve the business community, the responsibilities of the special librarian, and some of the new techniques and equipment that are being used in the operation of special libraries.

From November 4 through 6, Mrs. Charlemae Rollins, noted librarian, gave a series of three lectures:

"Poetry for Children," "Inter-Cultural Interests in Books for Children and Young People," and "The Art of Storytelling." Mrs. Rollins, one of the nation's most distinguished librarians, recently retired from the position of Children's Librarian of the Hall Branch of the Chicago Public Library. Her writings include We Build Together, The Magic World of Books, Christmas Gift and They Showed the Way.

Last in the series was Mr. Wallace Van Jackson who delivered two lectures on "Library Development in West Africa" on December 3 and 4. These lectures were made possible by a grant from the Rockefeller Foundation. Mr. Jackson is a former member of the faculty of the Atlanta University School of Library Service and a former librarian of Trevor Arnett Library. He is currently serving as librarian of Virginia State College, Petersburg, Virginia.

Mr. Lamkin meets with members of the staff of the School of Library Service and Trevor Arnett Library.

Participants in the 18th Annual Institute of Field and Class Instructors.

SOCIAL WORK INSTITUTE

The School of Social Work conducted its 18th Annual Institute of Field and Class Instructors on October 7-10. The theme of the Institute, "Institutionalization of Poverty: Implications for Social Work Education," was discussed at general sessions on Wednesday afternoon and Thursday morning. Dr. William S. Jackson, dean, presided at the opening session, Miss Victoria Scott, associate professor of social work, presided at the Thursday morning session. Work sessions were held from Thursday afternoon through Friday. The Institute closed on Saturday morning with a discussion by Dr. Joseph Golden, professor of social work, of the "Analysis of Reports and the Implications for Teaching." This session was presided over by Mrs. Margaret Hall, supervisor, medical social work. Dean and Mrs. Jackson entertained the participants at a reception at their home on Friday evening.

A public lecture was given in connection with the Institute. Dr. Jeanne L. Noble, Special Assistant to the President in the War on Poverty, was the speaker and chose as her topic, "The Community Stake in the War on Poverty." Dr. Noble also acted as a consultant for the various workshops.

Approximately fifty persons attended the Institute, which pursued a social problem area and its implications for teaching.

ADDITION TO BIOLOGY BUILDING

President Clement announced the receipt of a grant of $167,000 from the National Science Foundation towards the construction of a second floor to the existing one-storey Biology Research Building.

The grant will cover a period of two years and will be matched by an equal amount of non-federal funds. The present Biology Building is an integral part of the University's doctoral program in biology and houses faculty and student research laboratories, specialized laboratories, a large lecture room and a greenhouse.

SUPPORT THE UNITED NEGRO COLLEGE FUND

It is the quality of the alumni that determines the reputation of a college.

A college exists to educate the man and prepare him for useful participation in society. If he fails, his college feels the failure. If he succeeds, his college reaps its share of glory.

History will record this period of American growth as a time of tremendous forward strides by Negro citizens. Access to high-quality higher education has been opening the door. Certainly, many of the alumni of the United Negro College Fund's member institutions have met the need for responsible leadership that accompanies a break-through.

To assume continuing responsibility throughout the post-college career distinguishes true leadership from a momentary flush of success. The significant strides toward real opportunities in industry and government — formerly inaccessible — mark only the beginning. Many more Negroes must be prepared to grasp these opportunities; too few are college-educated. The demand for qualified people far exceeds the supply.

It is up to you — and your college — to enlarge upon yesterday's terrific spadework. In the last few years, UNCF colleges and universities have often earned acclaim for the miracles they perform. For instance, this year UNCF graduates are enrolled for advanced work in 70 top-ranking graduate schools of the nation's leading universities. Because of poor early schooling, many of these students would not have been accepted as freshmen in the undergraduate colleges of these same universities.

If We Won't — Who Will?

If UNCF colleges do not work with their freshmen to overcome their academic lags — what other colleges will?

This is the 22nd consecutive year that the United Negro College Fund has appealed to the conscience of all Americans on behalf of its member institutions. Money raised in the annual UNCF campaigns has lifted them out of the struggle for survival into the quest for academic excellence. Largely because of the help the general public has given over the years, all UNCF colleges are now accredited. They are members of their official education associations, subject to the same stringent standards all other accredited colleges in their geographical regions must meet.

As fine, independent institutions, searching out talented Negro youth and developing them into constructive leaders, the UNCF colleges are making a significant contribution to the nation. That is why you, as a responsible alumnus, are asked to give your time, your effort and your support to the United Negro College Fund's 1965 appeal.
