REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION

Only work of college and graduate grade will be offered. A student is eligible for admission to college classes if he has completed the fifteen regular college entrance units or their equivalent, and to graduate courses if he has completed a standard four-year college course with a bachelor's degree.

A permit to register in the University cannot be granted until the student has filed with the Director of the Summer School an official application, a transcript of all work taken on the college level, and letters of recommendation as to character and ability. Forms on which application for admission can be made may be obtained from the Director.

Students who have previously attended the Atlanta University Summer School or during a regular school session need not re-apply. They should, however, make reservation immediately for a room by sending to the Director of the Summer School the room deposit (see section under Housing, page 8).

THE NINE-WEEK SUMMER SESSION

For the 1948 session the Atlanta University Summer School will operate on a nine-week plan. In accordance with this plan it will be possible for graduate students to complete three-fourths of a semester's work and for one who is well prepared for graduate work to complete the requirements for the master's degree in three summers. In addition, high school graduates and young people in college will find the nine-week session of advantage in that it gives them opportunity to reduce the time to earn the bachelor's degree.

The courses to be offered are the same as those given in the regular session and yield the same credit. Public school teachers, students desiring college credit, graduate students in arts and sciences, and students interested in the professional schools of the University will find in the offerings of the summer session an opportunity to meet their needs.

A large number of the members of the faculties of the cooperating institutions will be in residence for the summer school. In addition, experienced outstanding teachers from the faculties of other institutions are being secured.

The resources of the several institutions, including laboratories, are available for the use of students of the summer school. The Atlanta University Library, with a seating capacity of 600 and a volume collection totaling over 80,000, offers to students of the summer school unusual advantages for study, reference, and cultural reading.

THE SCHOOL OF ARTS AND SCIENCES

In the School of Arts and Sciences, courses will be available in art, biology, chemistry, economics and business administration, English, French, history and political science, mathematics, philosophy, sociology and Spanish.

Teachers of content subjects in public and private secondary schools and colleges who are desirous of extending their training during the vacation period, might find it profitable to enroll in the graduate School of Arts and Sciences. The curriculum is varied and offers a wide range of subjects. Graduate work leading to the master's degree is offered in biology, chemistry, economics, business administration, English, French, history and political science, mathematics and sociology.

PROFESSIONAL SCHOOLS

School of Education

The objective of the School of Education is to develop men and women for professional leadership in teaching, administrative and supervisory positions. The School co-operates with institutions and agencies in promoting improvements in school programs and practices through field studies, research projects, workshops, and professional conferences.

Courses are offered leading to the master's degree. One emphasis is upon meeting the needs of those who desire that their graduate training culminate in a broad understanding of educational problems and practices and in their expert competence in planning and executing teaching, administrative and supervisory programs. The other is upon the training of students who feel that they can make their greatest contribution as educational workers through the development of their abilities to make intensive studies of problems in which research techniques are used.

The offerings in the summer session are planned so that students may proceed smoothly with this program.

School of Library Service

The School of Library Service will offer work leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science in Library Service. Only college graduates who are work- ing as teachers or as librarians are eligible for admission. Preference will be given to those who plan to complete the course at the School.

School of Social Work

The work in this School is planned for six types of students: (1) professional workers of experience who possess the Master of Social Work degree and who desire to learn of new developments in the field of social work; (2) persons not expecting to work for the Master of Social Work degree who are practicing or plan to practice in fields related to social work, such as nursing or teaching and who possess an A. B. degree; (3) persons employed in a social agency who have entered the field without professional training but possess an A. B. degree; (4) persons desiring to prepare for volunteer work either in social agencies or in communities where no such agencies exist; (5) regular students who are candidates for the Master of Social Work degree who have certain deficiencies which have to be made up; (6) students already enrolled in the 1947-48 fall and spring sessions who wish to continue their field work and theses but not their class room work during the summer session.

A person may not begin work on the Master of Social Work degree during the summer period.

A student regularly enrolled in the School as candidate for the Master of Social Work degree may not use the summer class room sessions to accelerate the period of his training in the School.

Courses and institutes will be offered for the various types of students mentioned above, admission to which is subject to approval by the Office of the Director of the Atlanta University School of Social Work.

THE WORKSHOPS

In order to provide more adequately for the specialized needs of advanced students, workshops will be featured for supervisors, science teachers, English teachers, principals; and in adult education, art and crafts, and home economics education. These workshops are open to specially qualified students. They are related closely to current professional and vocational needs and to contemporary developments. Those desiring to enroll should have their applications accepted before the opening of the session.

Adult Education. With increasing emphasis being placed on programs for the continued education of adults, there is a demand for workers trained in the methods and techniques of outlining and conducting classes for adults.

The workshop in adult education is, therefore, being organized to help teachers, community workers and other public spirited citizens to become better acquainted with needs, methods and opportunities in this field. Persons in the forefront of the whole adult education movement in this country will be available as consultants.

Arts and Crafts. Opportunity will be provided for instruction and experience in the philosophies, techniques and media of art education, and the methods of adapting these to the particular problems and environment of the teacher or artist.

Home Economics Education. The Atlanta University Summer School will again offer a workshop in home economics methods for teachers and community workers. Emphasis will be placed on the curriculum and methods of teaching home economics in the secondary school. Also consideration will be given to the part the whole program in home economics contributes to better homes and communities.

Language Arts. Teachers will be given ample opportunity to study specific problems in the teaching of English in their particular schools. The staff and visiting consultants will be available for group and individual conferences and guidance in the teaching of writing, speaking, reading and listening. Qualifications for admission are graduation from college and at least one year's experience as a teacher of high school English.

Science. This training is for experienced teachers who are desirous of planning for more effective science programs in their schools and colleges. Opportunity will be available for teachers to get help and direction in making science equipment and in conducting practical experiments leading to the development of science skills.

Principals. Emphasis will be placed upon a careful analysis of desirable practices in regard to techniques of democratic planning with staff, students and community groups. This workshop is recommended for high school and elementary school principals who wish to do advanced work in school administration and who wish to study the practical problems involved in the management and administration of a school.

Supervisors. Individual and group guidance will be available at the workshop for supervisors in a study of child growth needs, teacher competences, elementary school programs and supervisory skills. Special consideration will be given to practical problems of a rural school supervisor.
