PREFACE

This compilation of theses written for Masters' degrees at Atlanta University covers the period 1960 to 1965. It is Number 5, Part I, in the Library Publication series and lists in this issue 1,107 theses in 14 fields. The listing is arranged alphabetically by subject and author. The author's name is followed by the title of the thesis, the year in which the degree was conferred, and the number of pages in the thesis. An author index includes the entry number which follows the name of each author. Particular attention is called to the Appendix which consists of two tables giving the distribution of the number of theses submitted to the Graduate Faculty since 1931. This year-by-year presentation showing the range and number of theses prepared by graduate students, in a real sense, charts the growth and development of graduate study and research at Atlanta University.

The user will be assisted in locating all of the theses prepared at Atlanta University through a "Cumulative Subject Index" which is being prepared. This index will cover the period from 1931 to 1965 and will be issued in a separate volume as Number 5, Part II, in the near future.

Mrs. Gaynelle W. Barksdale is to be congratulated for her excellent job in preparing the fifth issue of this valuable research tool while she pursued her many other duties as Head of Readers' Services and as Reference Librarian at Trevor Arnett Library. Her other publications include: A Selected List of Reference Books for High School Libraries; Slave Narratives in the Trevor Arnett Library; A Preliminary Bibliography of Thomas Clarkson; and A Selected Bibliography of Equiano Olaudah.

The two following tables will illustrate departmental growth and change of direction in Atlanta University's objectives. In the early years, Masters' degrees were offered in home economics and Latin. After 1946, these two subjects were no longer included for the higher degree.

Atlanta University became a graduate school in the year 1929. The first thesis for the Master's degree was completed in 1931 in the Department of History. Chemistry and mathematics were the next to follow. One thesis was completed in chemistry in 1932. Three were completed in mathematics in the same year.

The first Master's degree in Social Work was granted in 1939, and by 1942, the Master's degree was being offered in twelve different subjects. These subjects were biology, chemistry, economics, education, English, French, history, home economics, Latin, mathematics, social work, and sociology. In 1947, business administration was added with political science following in 1949. Library science and social science were added in 1950.

The University has recently initiated a PhD program in two subject areas. The first Doctor's degree awarded will be a further indication of the vitality of Atlanta University.
