Welcome From Your Student Government

For all practical purposes this article has been written ostensibly to welcome all M. B. C. students to the campus in behalf of the Student Council. This sincere welcome is extended to former students returning for another year of intellectually enlightening as well as to our seemingly multi-talented Freshmen Class. A special welcome also goes out to those very wise students who transferred from other schools. It is our sincere hope that this school year will prove profitable to each of you.

However, there is a very important underlying reason for this article. It is my contention that we need an awakening to some of our responsibilities as members of a student body. It is my hope that this message will not be accepted in the light of a reprimand but as a reminder or an appeal.

William Wilkins

Each year the entire student body participate in the election of our student council. We should consider this as more than just an empty effort with no effect on us in the subsequent semester. This election should represent an opportunity for us to play a large and important part in our school affairs.

Our student body has wisely elected a very worthy and capable president of the council for the 1962-63 school year in the person of William Wilkins. He, along with the other members of the Council, are soliciting your support in order to make this school year an effective and progressive one.

Our president, Mr. Wilkins has is in a very precarious position. He is constantly under pressure from the faculty and administrators, one from one end, and one from the student body on the other end. These two "pressure groups" can be reconciled with your help. This message is therefore an appeal to you, as students, for your support to help us help all of us. Let us support our president and the council to "get Morris Brown moving again."

Once again I welcome you to Morris Brown and wish you an enjoyable school year.

Morris Brown College Announces Lyceum Series 1962-63

Each year Morris Brown features a lyceum series as part of the cultural and recreational facilities offered to students. The chairman of the Cultural Committee, Dr. G. Johnson Hubert, announces that this year's series will include three pianist, a vocalist, marimbist, dancer, two student recitals and three concerts by the College Choir and Concert Band. The Series which opens October 21 will close May 10 with the Annual Festival of Music and Arts.

The opening attraction — Three In Concert, will be presented Sunday, October 21. This unique trio of talented artists features the unusual combination of piano, marimba, and dance. The variety in program which is rare indeed, features not only serious music and ballet but also the music and dance of the theatre in its appropriate style.

In November, students will be featured on two occasions: (1) there will be a Student Recital on November 11; (2) The Thanksgiving Vesper Service, November 18, will feature the College Choir in a program of sacred music. The Christmas program will be presented on December 2. This year the choir will sing the Christmas section of Handels Messiah and a program of miscellaneous carols.

Perhaps the most outstanding young pianist to appear on any college campus this season will be Thomas Schumacher. Scheduled for a recital at the college January 13. This brilliant young artist has played with many of the major symphonies and received rave notices from critics throughout America.

On February 10th, a Student Recital will be presented and the Annual Founder's Day Concert will be given on March 11. A piano recital by Roslyn Pope Walker is scheduled for April 7th. This brilliant and talented young artist is instructor of piano this year at Morris Brown. A graduate of Spelman, Roslyn Walker recently spent a year in Europe studying under a Merrill Fellowship Grant. Additional study was done at the Cleveland Institute of Music and Art.

270 Freshmen Enter Morris Brown College

Morris Brown College is proud to have such a good crop of freshmen this year. This class exhibits all the traits necessary to endure college life. Agressiveness is readily detected in the freshman class and proved by the fact that freshmen are eager to know the best way to do things, and then, without hesitancy, to proceed to do them. They have accepted their campus civic responsibilities and proved to be competent.

Many have joined the band, choir, cheering squad, newspaper staff, student government, Human Relations club and the NEA.

Warren Lovinggood is the new virtuoso drum major for the marching Wolverines. Other prominent members of the freshman class who have expressed interest in and made a distinct contribution to the band are: Minnie Boozer, majorette, Peggy Smith, Elaine Bell, James Starr, Hiram O'Neil, James Phelps, Joyce Smith, Gwendolyn Morris, Edwina Grier, Felton Sutton, John Lankford, Marshall Lucas, Horace McKinney, Bernard Bradley, and Patricia Geer.

Freshmen in the choir include Patsy Booker, Billy Hargrove, Debra Lyde.

All of the participants on the Freshman Talent Night program are to be congratulated for a excellent show on which a variety of talents were displayed. Persons skilled in Art, Music, Dance, and Drama reflected the efforts of creative minds present in our freshmen.

The President of this magnificent class is McKinley Young, a graduate of Howard High in Atlanta, and to assist him is Bernard Bradley the vice president, a graduate of Turner High in Atlanta.

The Freshman Class President Speaks:

"The freshmen class of 1962 of Morris Brown College has received a warm welcome from the president, administration, faculty and student body. We are seeking knowledge and truth and above all trying to become true Brownites. We have finished various schools and we have different ideas but the same objectives. Through the preceding years we have looked forward to this year and the new start that it gives. We have faith in God, in this institution, and in making that our dreams will become realities. We have crossed the bay, but the ocean lies before us and we boldly march forward with dignity and integrity."

Welcome From Personnel

WELCOME — to the 1962-1963 class from the Personnel Department of Morris Brown College. We hope that you new, as well to the college a spark of interest as returning students will bring and enthusiasm. Added to the usual anticipation and enthusiasm is the excitement of students returning to meet old friends and room-mates, and making resolutions to get higher grades.

You will find yourselves given many rights as an adult when you enter Morris Brown College, but, just as in the life of a fully independent adult, these rights carry responsibilities. Support of — and assistance to — Morris Brown College while you are a student will bring you into direct contact with the aims for which this College exists. Please remember, the opportunity will be yours to grasp the concept of a college education and the philosophy which drives the college's daily operations. Most of all you will see how important the contribution of each individual student is to the existence of Morris Brown College. There is a great deal of satisfaction in feeling that while you were a student on the campus of Morris Brown College, you saw the significance of a college and contributed to its strength through your own thoughtful efforts.

It is the aim of Morris Brown College to provide opportunity for moral, spiritual, and intellectual growth under Christian influences. Accordingly, an effort is made to combine cultural education with practical vocational and pre-vocational training in the preparation of ministers, elementary and secondary teachers and many other professions.

We sincerely hope you have a splendid year as you move up the ladder of success.

$250,00 Renovation Project To Be Completed October 31st.

But Barge and Company has done it! Probably one of the most pleasing and surprising sights that greeted us on our return this year was the complete renovation of Gaines Hall.

The exterior has received a complete face lifting which included cleaning the bricks and repairing the windows.

The interior has been completely redecorated. New painting and plantering may be observed throughout the three story structure including the basement.

Among the major improvements are new plumbing and bath equipment throughout the building and a new fire alarm system. The old fire escapes have been replaced by fire-proof stairs which provide maximum safety. The young ladies are provided with facilities for dressing the hair and a modern laundry.

A guest dining room, with seating capacity of one-hundred persons, will be used on such occasions as dinner meetings and luncheons. It may also be used by students on special occasions.

Although the bed-room capacity has not changed, Gaines Hall has been made more adequate.

Reconstruction was begun June 18. Total completion is expected around October 31. The construction company is presently awaiting the arrival of a special order of equipment for shower partitions and baths.

The total cost of financing renovation and new furniture additions, which amounts to nearly $250,00, was made possible through a loan from the Home Financing Agency of the United States government.

Construction was by Barge and Company General Construction. Miller and Allain were the architects.

Simon Hubbard seems to be himself again now that Ella Pryor is back on the scene.

Nellie A. Jones, why don't you come down from the third floor and give a fellow a chance; it could be J. M.

Wedding bells are ringing for Pauline Zeigler and Billy Wilkins. Congratulations and Best Wishes.

Julia Davis, Barbara Cooke and Doris Grant have joined forces and agreed to form a "Lonely Hearts Club."

Mr. Ozie Duncan, can't you open your eyes and see that Miss E. C. has eyes for you.

Just what is it that you have, Bobby Isom, that has all of these freshmen young women swooning over you?

Alfred Jones are you still missing the "sweetie" smile? Ha! Ha!

Jo Ann Eusery, why don't you stop smiling long enough to give J. D. your telephone number?

Madglean Johnson and Ernestine Craft are trying to join forces with the "Lonely Hearts Club." Why so early, freshmen?

Jo Ann Spear seems to be making it "fine" with James Wilborn. Beware, for Carolyn H.'s eyes are watching.

Lillian Booker will love you and leave you J. T. with a "broken heart."

Did you know that Jessie McCier carries that North Carolina "smile"? Beware fellows.

Our queen is about to take on her king and crown and live happy everafter. L. H. and J. G.

James Price, are you going to be president of the "Lonely Hearts Club" including Julia Davis?

Geraldine Redding seems to have flipped the sophomore, junior and senior fellows. Watch out, girls!

Y. Crosby don't you know that all work and no play make you an old maid. It won't happen if that fellow in your social research class is given a yes to some of the questions he writes you.

Patricia Gates, why are you smiling so? Is there someone special?

Say, Co-Capt. Thomas, why is it you can't see that B. R. still has eyes for you?

I wonder what year will it be before the Freshmen girls get wise to D. S. He'll Love you and leave you.

"The Rat Race At M. B. C."

The "rat race" has become an integral part of our educational system. One can purchase tickets on any college campus to observe what goes on in the "rat race". However, I'll expose a pessimistic view of the rat race at MBC.

This year, 1962, some three hundred freshmen entered the starting gate at the MBC track for a four year stretch. To be a participant one must have certain qualifications which should enable him to finish as a winner; however, during the race many of the participants drop out for various reasons.

The line-up at MBC is representative of diversified groups of people with different economical, religious and social backgrounds but the vast majority are classified as Negro-bred. The tactics employed in the race such as cheating, undercover acquaintance motives, philibuster-ticularly some of those who receive honor roll medals after having completed the 1st semester dash. Some of the participants are virtuoso "cheese tempters" and have a way of crossing goal lines while the tutor enjoys a delectable meal.

It's survival of the fittest. The tutors have means of sifting out some who won't continue the race, the sifter being examinations. Many manage to pass through while others grow fat with dullness, and fail.

Till Death Do Us Part

by Gordon Pace

Time seems to pass us by Like birds flying through the sky
Yet our time has been well spent
And the Romantic twig is bent

Knowing that life can be a horror
Of diluted pain and sorrow
You have vowed to be my guide
In every inch of stride

Yet I proclaim no glorious fame
And possess but a common name
You insist that you love me
For what I ought to be

For these reasons and many more is why
I can never no never deny
That love for you is deep in my heart
And Till Death Do Us Part

Uganda's Independence

Apollo Wakiaga

By — Apollo Wakiaga (Public representative for the African Students' Union in Atlanta).

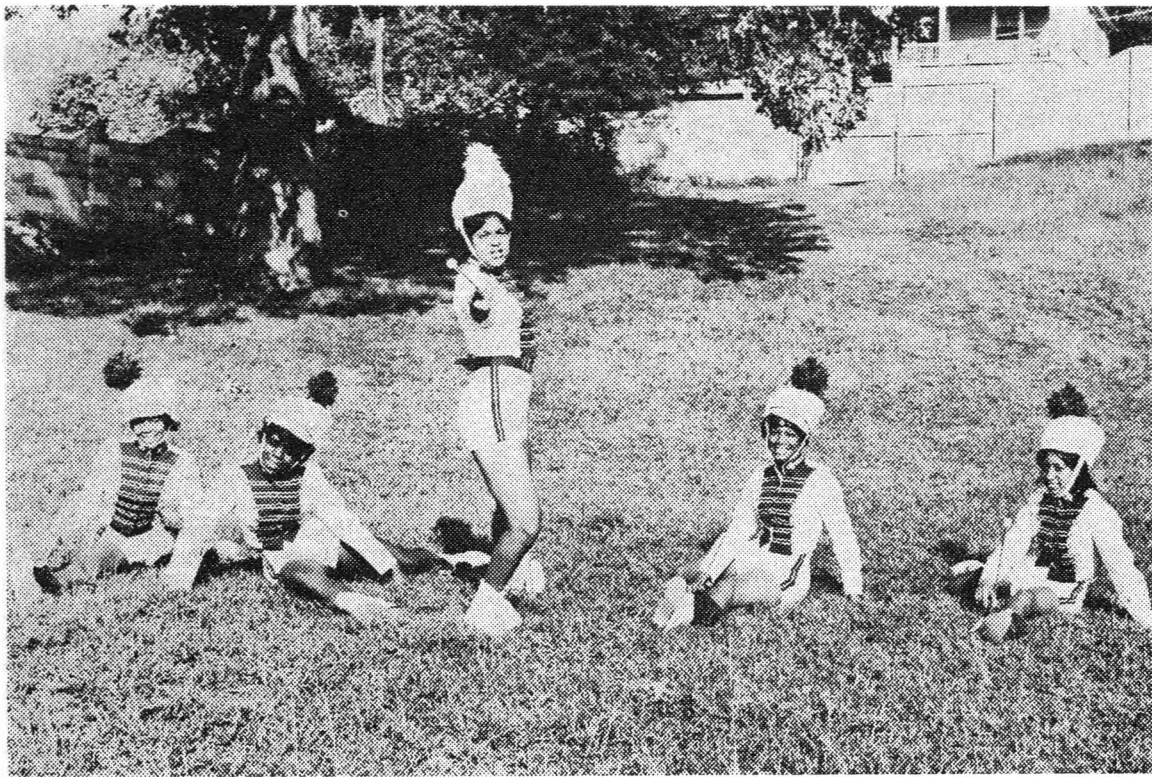

Uganda, a former British Protectorate, gains her independence on Tuesday, October 9, 1962. She will be the second British dependency in the East-Coast of Africa to achieve such status. The first was Tanganyika, which gained her independence last year in December.

Uganda, newly-born nation is by size not very large. It has a land area of about 94,000 square miles and a population of approximately 6.7 million people, 98 per cent of which are Africans. It is bounded on the east by Kenya, on the South by Tanganyika, Ruanda and Urundi, on the West by the Congo Republic (Leopoldville) and on the north by Scdan. Despite the fact that it lies across the equator, Uganda has a very pleasant climate. The temperature ranges from 60 degrees F. to 80 degrees F., whereas rainfall averages about country.

After the Berlin Conference of 1884-1885, and the Anglo-German agreement of 1890, Uganda came under the British Sphere of influence and was administered by the Imperial British East African Company. However, a protectorate was not proclaimed until 1894, when control was in the hands of the Commission. After a short revolt against the British rule, several agreements with the various chiefs were made. This then paved the way for constitutional developments. The first British imperial governor was appointed in 1907, and the last one in 1961.

For administrative purposes, Uganda is divided into four provinces. These are the Eastern, Northern, Western, and Buganda. Each province is divided into districts which are again subdivided into sazas or countries and sub-countries.

The backbone of Uganda's economy has been agricultural products. The main cash crops are coffee, cotton, tea, and tobacco. Other crops such as sugar, bananas, simsim and ground nuts are produced for local consumption. There are also some mineral deposits, notably copper and phosphates. Small quantities of gold and lead concentrates are scattered in various spots. The building of the Owen Fall Dam on the river Nile helped to accelerate some industries and trades and to raise the standard of living. All these achievements have been possible because of efforts rendered by different diverse groups of people who have made Uganda their home. Thus, today with the coming of independence, more will be accomplished by the Ugandans.

Morris Brown Band Has "New Look"

The Morris Brown College Band of 1962 boasts a membership of 65 to 70. The band directors state: "Football fans are sure to be 'upset' by some of the new formations, pageantry and dance routines that are being rehearsed day and night for this season's half-time shows."

The growing pattern among bands in the past years has been to produce shows that offer entertainment for all types of audiences. For this reason, the new shows that are under rehearsal promise everything from the "twist" and "rock and roll" to the best from Carnegie Hall. Our band director, Cleophus Johnson, assisted by Charlie Cox, will leave no stones unturned to bring you the newest tricks in the business. For example, their first show — "Birth of the Blues" will feature dance steps dating from the "Gay Nineties" right down to the present day "twist". You'll see bandsmen who can dance, play and sing.

The band is many things to many people. It is often as identifiable by what it lacks as by what it includes. For example, absence of the usual "highstepping, baton-twirling majorettes" is disappointing to some. For this reason, we don't intend to disappoint you on this score. Our majorettes will be some of the best we've had in years, and are going in for some new routines that will really make you stand up and take notice.

Of course there are those who enjoy seeing precision drills and unique formations on the field. These too will be our specialty. Of course the absence of qualified players can be a criticism to any band. But here again, we feel that with all of the new talent coming in from various high schools, our marching Wolverines have a good chance to surprise even the most critical of you with their playing skill this year.

Lest we forget, the new uniforms which our bandsmen will be sporting also do a lot to enhance the appearance of what promises to be one of the best aggregations in the city. So let's all plan to be on hand to see the show and "the new look".

The Death Of The Flower

Remember reading of the days when Knighthood was in full bloom? Then, it was nothing out of the ordinary for some stout knight to moan "a woeful ballad made to his mistress' eyebrow. "A woman was considered one of earth's most precious elements, full worthy of glorification and elevation, in the sights of men, to a pedestal paralleled only by the gods.

Down through the years, as the followers of this noble order began to thin out, women began to be regarded as just women (as we know them today). Their pedestal was snatched out from under them and they landed in a heap at the feet of their lords and masters. Here they remained, for the most part, in spite of some few exceptions.

After a lengthy period of time certain women who were dissatisfied with these arrangements began to protest. In our country for example, agitators such as Susan B. Anthony and Alice Paul demanded reforms to elevate women to the same level as men politically as well as in the business world. They won. Women shared equal rights.

From here women excelled, and even surpassed men, in every field of endeavor. They were lifted, in fact, to almost every possible position, except that which they once occupied next to the infinite. In compensation for this women became harsh competitors and forced men to work furiously to retain their social positions as well as the stability of their ego. Still, no-one looked up.

During this long period of transition for women there remained in the background a small number of knights who had outlived their age. This widely scattered clan of throwbacks still strove to uphold the precepts of their order. It is recorded that on January 17, 1947, Mr. Oswald B. Chumpton gave up his seat on a New York subway to an elderly lady. Even as late as May, 1960, records show that a certain Mr. Freeman Stix opened and held the door of a Los Angeles supermarket while three (3) heavily laden matrons made their exit.

In spite of these superhuman efforts to revive the old flame it is slowly diminishing due to the fact that women are doing very little to keep it alive. Apparently they have forgotten all about their pedestal. An illustration of this was cited in a local newspaper recently. A certain Mr. Ignathius Frump was clubbed to death in his doctor's waiting room by an umbrella brandishing elderly woman. The incident occurred when Frump rose as the woman entered the room. His assailant was later quoted as remarking "I didn't know . . . he acted so strangely."

Was Mr. Frump the last knight or are there others of this supposedly extinct mode? Today, as society and women make war on these poor degenerates it is most likely that the remaining few (if there still are) will choose to retain their anomity. Will they be missed or will their departure even be noticed? Is there a place in our society for people such as these or was chivalry only a stage in the growth of a now matuer society? Are there yet others who are willing to risk the scourge of individuality and even social death to keep that flickering spark still glowing: or has the flower of chivalry been plucked and trampled under the feet of this busy world?

The Fulbright-Hays Program 1963-64

A special program has been established by the United States Educational Foundation in India whereby Fulbright-Hays awards have been made available to American college and university graduates for the teaching of English at Indian universities. The eligibility requirements and the stipend are the same as for the regular Fulbright awards.

The teaching assistantship involves approximately 12 hours of classroom instruction in English language and usage and the grading of papers and some assistance in informal conversation sessions. The assistants work under the direction of a professor of English and are not required to have had previous teaching experience or to have majored in English. The holders of these grants are permitted to follow courses or to carry on research in their own field of special interest at the university to which they are attached.

This program would have a special appeal to students interested in an opportunity for service abroad in the field of international education and a living experience in an Asian society but who have not as yet committed themselves to specific area studies. Students interested in the political and social sciences and in the humanities are especially encouraged to apply.

Grantees will receive special training in India on the teaching of English as a foreign language. They should have a voice which carries well and good diction free of any marked regional accent. The regular Fulbright application form may be used. However, the statement of purpose must specify that the application is for a teaching assistantship in India.

Please see the Fulbright Program Adviser on your campus, office of the dean, for further information and deadline dates.

PENN APPOINTED

since 1946. The recipient of several degrees, Dr. Penn has studied at many institutions of higher learning. He received his B.S. degree from Hampton Institute in 1935, his M.S. degree from the University of Iowa in 1942, and his Ph.D in Biology from the University of Iowa in 1956.

Although Dr. Penn has taken over the deanship, he continues to serve as head of the science division and lectures in several courses offered to Biology majors and minors.

When asked whether or not he intended to make any changes in administrative or instructional procedures Dr. Penn merely stated that the rules and regulations of the college would be followed.

The entire staff of the Wolverine Observer joins me in welcoming Dr. Penn to his new position.

Fall Fashion News

by Ann Bailey

With school back in session again the subject most likely to be discussed is clothes. What will the fashionable college student wear this fall? The answer is simple: "Separates." These separates may range from sweaters and skirts or blouses to skirts and jackets. The general idea among college coeds is to have as many changes as possible with a limited wardrobe.

The styles in shirts are Tartans, district checks, tweeds, and flannels — topped by either shetland sweaters, velveteen or little-red-riding-hood jackets. Blouses are tucked in, starched and neat. Shoes are polished leather and multi colored suedes. As far as color — here's a quick run-down. Muted browns will be popular . . . so will deeper blues, stony greens and no-color colors. But the big news will be red . . . ranging from bright orange-y to deep jewel tones.

The new fall fashions for men are marked by the return of browns. According to Bert Bacharach, one of the nation's foremost authorities on men's fashions, the best news is a return to brown, which comes as a welcome change from dark gray, black and more black. The black suits are gradually fading from the college campus. For the man who likes blue there is a variety of shades to choose from. For the young at heart, there is a variety of patterns and surface treatments which create and produce a brighter look than has been seen in men's clothes for years. The cardigans are also popular among the young men. They are ideal for sports wear.

The Ques

BRO. WILKINS LEADS

The Ques of Alpha Sigma are set for a promising year for 62-63. Bro. Will Wilkins, a junior honor student, has been elected as President of the student government. He has been also chosen as basileus for Alpha Sigma. Bro. Wilkins is a native of Elberton, Georgia, and has served four years in the U.S. Air Force. He is a Spanish major and a member of the Veterans Club. Other brothers are constantly striving to equal the lofty standards of scholarship and leadership that have been set by Bro. Wilkins.

Bro. Ira Kemp of Macon, Ga. a Music major and member of the concert choir and marching band will serve as vice basileus. His leadership throughout the campus has proven to be a tremendous asset to our fraternity.

Bro. Robert Epps of Richmond, Va., Keeper of Records and Seals is also a member of the Concert Choir and made an extensive tour with the group which afforded him the opportunity to meet other brothers in Omega. Other brothers include Percy Hill, Dean of Pledges, Arthur Wilson, Keeper of Fanance, Charles Coar, Business Manager and Chaplain and Charles Scott, Director of National Achievement Week.

Lovely Delta Toledo Riley is the Chapter Queen. She is that rare combination of beauty, brains and talent.

The chapter plans a variety of programs and events for the year. These include Chapel programs, and a smoker for the freshmen. Each brother will volunteer his services for student tutoring in his respective field.

Sphinx Pledge Club

by Edward L. Halman

"Growth," said one noted philosopher, "is the essence of the life process." It is with this thought in mind that the Sphinx Pledge Club of the Iota Chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity welcome Morris Brown College freshmen to the campus.

Each year as a new influx of freshmen come to M.B.C. it brings to mind the thought that perhaps this ever-increasing number of college bound students realize the importance of their subsequent growth. Admittedly, college isn't the only place that this growth can be attained but it is certainly one of the major places. I, therefore, say "congratulations" freshmen for taking this decisive step.

What is this growth? It can take many forms: Intellectual, emotional, social, and physical. In order for us to benefit fully from our college education we must "put our nose to the grind stone" and work hard. Our intellectual achievements are considered somewhat as measuring sticks of our development. In all practicality, it also insures our subsequent success in life. It can therefore be seen that it is mandatory for us to exercise our best efforts to truly grow intellectually. Then too, needless to say, school is expensive. It has been said that the one thing we are willing to pay for and not get is an education.

I am sure that we recognize these words of our president of Morris Brown. If serious thought is given to the implications of this statement I am sure that you will realize the sad truth in them and will strive to rectify them.

However, one-sided growth isn't sufficient. Any one of the types of growth mentioned above would not represent a well-received, successful educational process if taken alone. Exploration of all avenues available on the college campus is a prerequisite of the growth process.

It is the sincere hope of the Sphinx Pledge Club the 1962-63 freshmen will take advantage of these many avenues and have a happy, fruitful and successful year.

Lord may I live to help the ones Who tried to keep me down

And may I greet him with a smile Who greets me with a frown

And may I be too big to see The things that others do to me

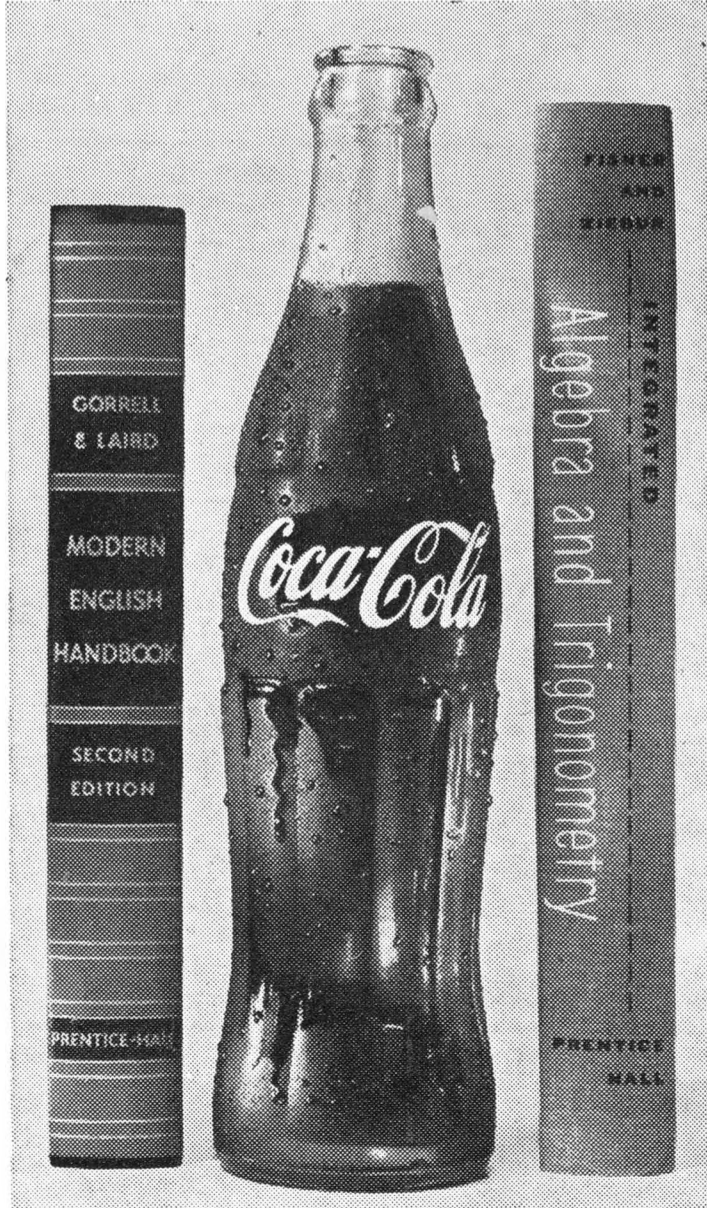

Lord may I never hold a grudge Nor hunt for scattered strife

And may I never seek to find Fault in another's life

But always be too big to see The things that others do to me.

To each of you we wish a successful year.

Crescents

The Crescent Pledge Club of the Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity is beginning under the leadership of its president, Efton Arnold, a new program. We wish to innovate on Morris Brown's campus a debating team. There has not been an advisor chosen yet, nor is this innovation off the ground level, but we wholeheartedly believe that such an organization will be an integral part of this college life.

Another fact which we would like to present to the campus populace is that on Oct. 13, 1962 a transistor radio was given away. We, the Crescents of Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, would like to thank the students and members of the faculty for their patronage. The radio was won by Mrs. J. A. Smith.

I refuse to close this article without a decent welcome, which can only entail advice to the freshman class. Freshmen and freshmen, lend me your ears. I did not come, but I am afraid your teachers did come, to bring or should I say burden you with loads and loads A-N-D loads of knowledge. Your job is very simple. You can just soak yourself under this stream of these intellects. Now I shall give you two facts; First, the fact that you are here is evidence that you can swim through the turbulence of this intellectual stream; however, if you decide to wade or mud-crawl it would be best that you pack your luggage because the slower you go the quicker your bags will have to be carried.

Welcome to Morris Brown College, Freshmen. We are proud to have you. We hope that you have been orientated into the true spirit of "Dear Old M.B.C."
