Alumna to Alumnae

"There is no greater honor for a Spelman woman than to receive an honor from her alma mater, Spelman College. I will treasure this 110th anniversary Founders Day celebration among the most treasured moments of my life.

"Even though you may come and go for reunions and for Founders Day, as volunteer, as visitor, your heart never really leaves Spelman. I have had many proud and wonderful associations with the College over the years, forty (years) to be exact—as a freshman student in 1951, as a trustee in 1966, as wife of the fifth president of Spelman, as chair of the annual Alumnae Fundraising Campaign, and forever as a loyal and devoted alumna.

"My message to you today is one of hope and love and aspiration.

"The plain truth is that in spite of often difficult, despiriting circumstances, in spite of what we read in the papers or see on television, in spite of the statistics, most black American have done it. We have built solid, loving families. We are hard working. We hold decent jobs. We are leaders in our communities.

"We must applaud black womanhood and black manhood. We must celebrate their racial dignity. This is an obligation that we all share. As we are people of a legacy—the legacy of our African-American pioneers, the men and women who broke down the wall of racial discrimination on their way to distinction; the legacy of black men and women who gave their lives for freedom; the legacy of Spelman College; the legacy of our founders, Ms. Giles and Ms. Packard; a legacy that must be preserved and passed on to our children and our children's children, or we as a people will surely perish.

"It is a long way, indeed, a mighty long way for a poor, black, barefoot girl from the cotton fields of Mississippi to Washington to the position of Deputy Assistant Secretary for Health of the Department of Health and Human Services, the third highest ranking medical position in the department. This department, the largest in our federal government, with its budget of $567 billion, its 120 employees, containing more than 200 programs that impact upon the lives of all Americans daily, indeed many affecting the entire world. And, it is because of Spelman College, its founding women, Ms. Giles and Ms. Packard, its benefactors, the Spelman and Rockefeller families, the full, four-year tuition scholarship awarded me in 1951, the nurturing provided me daily in this place—Sisters Chapel, but most of all, it is for the opportunity Spelman College gave me for an education that has made it all possible. And I for one will forever say, with a fierce and deep heartfelt emotion, the words: 'Spelman, thy name we praise.'"

Excerpted from Audrey Forbes Manley's (C'55) Founders Day acceptance speech (April 11, 1991) as the recipient of the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

For Spelman Women: Past, Present, and Future

Upon the occasion of the 110th anniversary of the founding of Spelman College.

by Pinkie Gordon Lane

*Another spring opens in the April air, and Spelman
finds a place caroling
the morning and the sun.*

*On this day of brightness founded on the lives of two
who turned a dream
into wholeness, into fertile
soil, we sweep away the darkness of unknowing. We build—we*

*women reaping strength
from the mystery of the self.*

*We are women who change the world,
who turn barren soil into fruit
of spirit, and of light.*

We are

*“sturdy black bridges”
as sister Carolyn wrote,**

*“impervious, indestructible,”
as sister Mari wrote,**

*“We a BaddDDD people,”
as sister Sonia wrote,**

*This body is “an eloquence,”
as sister Gwendolyn wrote.**

*Let us dispell ambiguities
and disbelief.*

*Let us reach to the center
of our calling—in art,
in science, in the politics
of love vibrating in the heartland—
unwavering, unending.*

*The cosmos of humanity
reaches out to us.*

*And our lives press on, press on,
press on.*

Sisters Chapel, Founders Day 1991

"As I stand here, memories of Sisters Chapel flood my thoughts, from the earliest years into the present—vespers, eight o'clock chapel services, two graduations, Christmas Carol and other concerts, my wedding—even the all day taping of a Bill Cosby show in which I served as an extra!

"I have walked, sauntered, marched, skipped—illegally, of course—up and down these aisles and across this platform. I have fiddled with the campus orchestra, sung with choruses, recited, soloed with a visiting symphony orchestra—danced on a platform temporarily built at the treble level of the organ loft before the more recent installation of the visible pipes—and, most importantly, gathered within these walls the fundamental principles and basic philosophy of a way of living. More than a temple of worship, it was in every way my temple of learning whose high priests were resident, or visiting, philosophers, politicians, educators, scientists, men and women of the arts and letters of the cloth—Howard Thurman, Reinhold Niebuhr, Vernon Johns, the Johnsons (Mordecai, Charles, James Weldon), scientists, Arthur Compton and Robert Milliken, educators, Robert Hutchins and William Trufant Foster. On more recent occasions, I've heard a stirring speech by Alice Walker, beautifully responded to by Beverly Guy-Sheftall.

"A month short of 64 years ago, I bounded up those steps to our right and stood in line waiting to shake the hand of John D. Rockefeller, Jr. He was here to dedicate this building as a memorial to his mother and aunt. What impelled me to join those waiting persons? I was 12 years old, understandably shy and awkward, totally unable to speak! As I recall, he smiled pleasantly, giving no impression of haste about the next in line.

"It was a gracious prelude to all that has followed within these walls. Few of those occasions, however, have meant to me what this one does.

"Thank you Dr. Cole and fellow alumnae for the exceeding joy of this moment.

"Proudly and humbly I join the prior recipients of the Founders Spirit Award. These women were all on campus at some point during my seven years. They were strong in presence and have remained so after graduation—a reassuring link between past and present that helps to reinforce the ability of an institution to take on future responsibilities.

"Spelman—substantially, metaphorically—you have the capacity for all that lies ahead. My five days on campus this week have furnished me with all the reassurance possible—hope and confidence—that young women attending college at Spelman today will make this world a happier, better, safer, more stable place in which all people can live!"

The Spelman Connection

The following are excerpts from a response by Laura Spelman Rockefeller Chasin on behalf of herself, Gerald Davenport, Peggy Rockefeller Dulany, Elizabeth McCormack and Mary French Rockefeller on the occasion of a dinner in honor of their service as Trustees of Spelman College (April 10, 1991).

“...*M*y real, as opposed to my nominal, Spelman Connection began in a dormitory lounge, not in a Board room... My earliest bonds were not with my colleagues on the Board, but with the students and faculty I had occasion to talk with on my own... The calibre of this group is evidenced by the fact that one of its members, Freddye Hill, is currently the Dean of Students here at Spelman.

...*I*t was clear that I was the first Trustee with whom the students had ever had a conversation and I was not at all what they had expected. It was also clear that they were exactly as I had dreamed they would be: self-confident, smart, outspoken, feisty, candid, and passionate about their learning, the college, and the world around them.

During that conversation with those particular students, my inner connection with Spelman was born. I had long since figured out that they and their fellow students were being educated with only a portion of the resources that students at the colleges with which I was familiar had at their disposal...

Mary French Rockefeller (above)

The heart of my end of The Spelman Connection became a deep determination to see that those who followed them would attend a college that could meet their needs with just as many resources as the Ivy League colleges I knew best offered their students. . .

. . . If I cry tomorrow, as I usually do when we sing The Spelman Hymn, it is because this is the only college alma mater that truly touches my heart. . .

. . . Right now, this very moment, is one of Spelman's finest and most dramatic hours. . . .

. . . And yet. . . Spelman reaches this moment of triumph in her institutional history at a time when the society around her is experiencing one of the most vulnerable moments in its history. It is unclear to me whether Spelman will be able to sustain the promise of this hour, unless we, who already are part of the Spelman family, use what we have and do what we can do, and do it with enthusiasm, to see that her momentum is sustained. . . ."

The Groundbreaking

"When we break ground today, we honor our African-blooded sisters, ancestors who have brought us this far. Our present sisters' generation, and the unborn sisters who will continue our spirit of perseverance."

—Camille Cosby

"Indeed, Dr. Cosby's gift is a shining example of philanthropy and how it can positively affect Spelman's growth as we prepare for the 21st century."

—Johnnetta B. Cole

Spelman Hard Hats:	Special gift to the student body from Camille Cosby .

“Today’s groundbreaking exists because of what was. Those of you in 1991 are of a different time. The people who came before you paved the way and it is your responsibility now to excel. This building is our gift to the world and in turn, that’s what every graduate of Spelman will be—a gift to the world.”

—Bill Cosby

“This day is a highlight in the development of higher education for African-American women. Because of the extraordinary gift from two extremely generous individuals to an extraordinary institution, we are about to begin an extraordinary building.”

—Donna deJongh

Commencement 1991

*The following are excerpts from Washington, D.C. Mayor Sharon Pratt
Kelly's 1991 Spelman Commencement Address.*

"... Our task is clear. We must educate not just the "Talented Tenth"—we must educate each and every African-American so that we become producers and manufacturers—distributors of products and services in the expanding global market place.

... In this intensely competitive global market place—and especially in an America that believes in capitalism—we have got to bring something to the table. We cannot afford to be defined as simply those who take. We must become, at last, those who make—people who have the power to expand the economic pie. People who use our natural creativity, capacity and energy to become entrepreneurial examples of success.

... In spite of all our bondage and oppression, we are the descendants of generations after generation of people who have contributed to the advancement of this country."

... We have every right to be at the table of power. Not to engage in a mindless exercise of power, but to reflect the concerns that will help in the upliftment of this entire community. . . we as women will be there at the cutting edge—to claim our piece of the rock. . .

Washington, D.C. Mayor Sharon Pratt Kelly

...Class of 1991—I have full faith that you can and will claim ownership of the rock. And, as you claim ownership know this—you are our honor and our achievement; our continuity and resolve. You have in your blood the dignity of generations of African-American women who kept their integrity despite the bondage of slavery. You have in your heritage the strength of generations of African-American women who held their families together despite every disadvantage—knowing that one day your success would affirm their struggle...

...Your generation is a generation of capacity and rich potential. I believe in you. Define your success in your own terms. Define America's success through your individual achievement and collective enterprise...

"The UNCF (United Negro College Fund) has a mission to make sure that it is flexible to change. When UNCF was created out of a need to provide financial support to college students, early questions were raised to determine if a joint-fundraising program should be tried. UNCF has never existed to save weak institutions. . . Their first campaign in 1944 raised $1.5 million and served 27 institutions. . . Volunteerism is the cornerstone of their work and accomplishments. . . In 1972, 'A Mind Is A Terrible Thing To Waste' became their slogan. . . Lou Rawls' 'Parade of Stars' has been credited with putting UNCF where it is today. In 1980 over $18 million was raised. In 1990, $45 million was raised. The goal for this year is $50.6 million. . . The original vision of UNCF has probably held out because some of the institutions have left the organization feeling they are now strong enough to raise money on their own."

Dr. Mary O. Brookins Ross

Dr. Beverly Guy-Sheftall

“Both Spelman and Morehouse were born in the basements of Baptist churches. . . black churches promoted education through the pulpits and Sunday schools. The Black church was the only place that we could attend where laws did not prohibit our attendance. The church has been, and yet is, the organizer. The Black church is the oldest, strongest, most influential, and the most powerful institution that we have. Without the Black church, we would have been prevented from making significant contributions in all spheres of life—especially education. . . Our Black colleges need the Black church, and the church needs the Black colleges. It is, therefore, incumbent upon the Black church to understand that Black colleges are not a luxury; they are a necessity. Black colleges have responsibilities, obligations, and challenges to maintain the historical commitment; to combat racism; to uplift; to enrich, and to expand the quality of education it provides. They must remain a beacon of faith, in the capacity of women and men, to facilitate human development. . . I challenge the Black church, in this final decade of the 20th Century, to resolve to increase its philanthropy.”

“One does not have to be wealthy or white to engage in philanthropy. The African-American woman’s earliest organizations were associated with the church. The first gift to Spelman was $100, given March, 1881 from a Baptist church. In June 1882, the Baptist Educational Society was founded and represented the first philanthropic efforts by students who enlisted other students. Each donated 5— each month. Students ran the printing presses. They were very involved in the running of the school and had a sense of involvement in school activities. . . It is imperative to maintain a strong academic program because it attracts funds. We must provide a unique educational opportunity here different from other places in order to continue to be worthy of contributions.”

My Dear Spelman Sisters:

I am honored to chair the 1991-92 Alumnae Annual Fund Campaign. This is indeed a very important and special time in the history of our alma mater. The past two years have proven the depth of our capacity for giving when challenged by the College. Your contributions to last year's campaign yielded an 11% increase in alumnae giving over the previous year. With increased generosity from all our sisters, I know this year's campaign will be even more successful.

Our goal is $400,000 for the 1991-92 Alumnae Annual Fund Campaign. To achieve this, it is essential that all 6,900 of Spelman's outstanding alumna participate. I am confident that with the effort of the twenty-five members of the National Alumnae Annual Fund Committee and the generous contributions of the individual alumnae, we will reach our goal. I sincerely believe that we are the primary caretakers of Spelman College. And so, if Spelman is to remain the premier institution of higher learning for African-American women, then we must take leadership in financially supporting her.

I am excited about the potential for growth that the Alumnae Annual Fund Campaign presents for the College. Currently 20% of Spelman's graduates contribute to the campaign. My personal goal is to increase that number by at least 10% over the next two years.

My Spelman sisters, I am grateful for this opportunity to work with you. I thank you for everything that you do on behalf of our beloved alma mater. With alumnae united and committed to the mission of Spelman College, success is easily within our reach.

Yours in Sisterhood,

Mary Shy Scott

National Alumnae Annual Fund Committee

Now in its second year, the National Alumnae Annual Fund Committee is certainly making an impact as it contributes to the success of the College's Alumnae Annual Fund Campaign. Under the direction of its second chairperson, Mary Shy Scott (C'50) who succeeded Audrey Forbes Manley (C'55), the Alumnae Annual Fund Committee strives to accomplish a variety of goals and objectives, all fundamental to the success of Spelman's fundraising efforts.

The first of the Committee's goals is to increase the overall dollar amount of the Alumnae Annual Fund Campaign by soliciting gifts of $500 and above. The Committee, which represents a cross-section of the College's approximately 7,000 alumnae of record, solicits gifts from Spelman women only. Each Committee member is asked to solicit from 6-8 prospective donors.

Equally as important as the first goal, the Committee is also charged with the task of increasing the overall percentage of alumnae contributing to the Annual Fund. This is a significant responsibility as only approximately 20% of all Spelman alumnae are presently giving annually. Within the context of this assignment, the Committee is also responsible for educating alumnae about the needs and goals of the College as well as the importance of giving to the Alumnae Annual Fund Campaign, as this specific effort provides the foundation for all fundraising done by the College.

As the 1991-92 fiscal year nears its June 30 end, we are hopeful that the Committee will have successfully accomplished much of what it set out to do. Worthy of special mention is the fact that the President's Society (gifts of $1,000 and above) membership has more than doubled during last year's campaign as a direct result of the Committee's efforts. With these results, it is with great anticipation that we all look forward to a successful completion of the Committee's efforts for this year's Alumnae Annual Fund Campaign.

The Importance of Giving

The importance of alumnae giving cannot be stressed enough. Alumnae support is the foundation of all fundraising for Spelman, providing a shining example of dedication, tradition, and pride for the College to hold up for other prospective donors to see.

We wish to remind you that there are numerous ways of giving to the Alumnae Annual Fund Campaign. Included among these are making a pledge during one of our two annual phonathons, making a year-end gift in December, contributing at Founders Day, giving during the College's annual Reunion activities, and, finally, utilizing any of the direct mail solicitations you receive over the course of the year.

For Spelman to continue to grow and prosper in the coming years, it is imperative that alumnae increase and expand the level of support they already provide for the fundraising efforts of the College.

Please know that your gift to the Annual Fund is unrestricted (the vast majority of gifts from Foundations and Corporations as well as large individual gifts from non-alumnae are restricted) thus allowing Spelman an opportunity to apply the money wherever the need is greatest. This includes scholarships, faculty salaries, maintenance of the grounds, computer equipment and improved classroom facilities.
